READY_FOR_REVIEW — unexecuted review copy

Working positioning

Positioning: Proposed: considered workflow tools for small design teams. Audience: Independent design studios and their project leads. Attributes: Precise, calm, useful. Proposed statements remain proposals until the owner adopts them.

Brand name and legal name

Use Aster Works for product identification. Use Aster Works Ltd where the issuing legal party matters. Do not abbreviate legal names in execution or invoice fields.

Voice examples

Prefer specific evidence: "Your request is recorded; here is the next step." Avoid unproved absolutes such as "fully compliant" or "guaranteed secure". Owner-selected tone: Clear, measured and direct.

Clear space

Derive clear space from the actual mark: One height of the central square module on each side. Keep unrelated text outside this zone. The diagram illustrates the chosen rule rather than a universal logo formula.

Release sizes

Minimum sizes require review of the supplied artwork at intended use sizes. Compare 16, 24, 32 and 64 px and the 12, 20 and 30 mm ladder; record the smallest legible use after inspection.

Print and contrast

HEX values are screen specifications. Proposed process-print conversions need a printer proof; no exact Pantone match or certified CMYK conversion is claimed. Text contrast is calculated separately from logo aesthetics.

Office and email type

Use the available document font with Arial, Helvetica or Liberation Sans fallbacks. Email uses conservative system sans fonts. No font files are bundled; substitutions are recorded in build information.

Typesetting rules

Body text is 11 pt with measured spacing; footer text is 9 pt. Headings stay with the following paragraph. Avoid ornamental watermarks and crowded signature areas.

Editorial details

Use consistent dates, references and sentence case. Keep currency and entity names explicit. Use descriptive links, alt text and neutral language for disputes.

Keep the page useful

Page anatomy uses 22 mm margins, a reserved header and footer and restrained logo size. Long addresses wrap. Tables repeat header rows; continuation branding remains quiet.

Recommended production choice

Prefer native editable Word on blank A4 or Letter stock. Paper choice is independent of jurisdiction. Physical output and printer scaling require a separate proof.

Email letterhead

Email is a separate medium: a fluid presentation table, inline styles and live text branding. The print reference is not the sending template.

Image strategy

The image-free version remains readable. CID artwork requires an actual matching MIME attachment. No invented hosted asset URLs, tracking pixels or base64/SVG reliance in sending HTML.

Signature

A signature identifies the selected sender, role and approved contacts. It is not a handwritten signature or evidence of signing authority.

Imagery and iconography

Use source-provenance artwork with informative captions. Product icons do not imply a marketing logo master. Do not borrow third-party trademark specimens.

Motion and sub-brands

No motion or sub-brand system is invented for stationery. Where a real sub-brand exists, document its hierarchy and keep independent entities distinct.

Production rules

Stamp dimensions are configurable starting points. Outlined lettering and positive orientation are supplied. Supplier minimum lines/gaps, material and ink suitability remain proof gates.

Custody and approval

Assign a custodian, record purpose and version, and restrict stamp access. Common-seal requirements require constitution and local-law review.

Asset structure

Originals are hashed and retained separately from derivatives. Each recolour, crop or rasterization is labelled; reconstructed artwork never becomes an approved original by rendering.

Quality checks

Check small size, one-colour, reversed, grayscale and intended print use. Review every Word-derived page and browser print; structural checks alone are insufficient.

Source and ownership notes

Input asset rights stay with their owners. This package grants no trademark clearance, press approval or legal certification. Keep approval evidence separate from technical QA.
